

Unemployment drops to 7.3%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate declined sharply in January to 7.3 per cent, down from 7.8 per cent in December, with the improvement largely attributed to an unexplained decline in the labor force, the government said today.

Labor Department analysts said the severe winter weather across much of the nation may be partially responsible for the decline in the labor force. But they said the full impact of the weather on the nation's job markets probably won't show up until the job figures for February are compiled.

Government estimates of the number of Americans forced out of work by the weather range as high as 1.5 million, but nobody knows for sure.

The January unemployment rate was the lowest since last May, when it also was 7.3 per cent, the lowest it's been since the 1974-1975 recession.

The Labor Department said the jobless rate declined for almost all categories of the nation's labor force, and gave the following breakdown for January:

—Adult men, 5.6 per cent, down from 6.2 per cent in December.

—Adult women, 6.9 per cent, down from 7.4 per cent.

—Teenagers, 18.7 per cent, down from 19 per cent.

—Whites, 6.7 per cent, down from 7.1 per cent.

—Blacks and other minorities, 12.5 per cent, down from 13.4 per cent.

—Household heads, 4.8 per cent, down from 5.1 per cent.

—Fulltime workers, 6.7 per cent, down from 7.5 per cent.

—Blue-collar workers, 8.4 per cent, down from 9.6 per cent.

Over-all unemployment declined by 560,000 to 7 million workers. Total employment climbed only slightly, up to 88.5 million from 88.4 million in December.

A Labor Department analyst said most of the decline in unemployment resulted from a 440,000-drop in the nation's labor force, which he said defies a complete explanation at this time.

"Personally I'm not willing to say it was from the bad weather, or people getting discouraged and dropping out of the labor force or anything else," he said. "It could be some of that, but it's too early to know."

Although the January employment statistics were gathered before the full impact of the winter had been felt across much of the nation, analysts said a drop in agricultural employment during the month could be the result of bad weather.

The number of farm workers declined more than 150,000 to slightly more than

Postal rates won't go up during 1977

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service is going to cancel its plans to increase mail rates this year because of improvement in the agency's financial picture, postal sources say.

The sources said Thursday the Postal Service is preparing to announce within a few days that it operated in the black during the last three months of 1976. That will mark the second successive quarter with a surplus after a deficit for every quarter since 1972.

Before the improvement in the agency's finances, Postal Service officials had plans to raise rates by the fall of this year from 13 cents to 16 or 17 cents for a first-class letter.

But sources say the unexpected cash surpluses mean a rate increase will not be sought this year.

The size of the latest quarterly surplus could not be learned. But Postal Service financial data shows a surplus of $36.3 million for the period from Oct. 9 to Dec. 3. This compares to a loss of $289 million during the same period in 1975.

The sources said further deficits still are expected in the future because of anticipated increases in the cost of providing mail service. These higher costs include pay increases for postal workers, scheduled under labor agreements, and inflation, especially in fuel costs.

"We are not out of the woods yet. But obviously there has been a significant brightening of the financial picture," a Postal Service official said.

At one time a deficit of $1 billion was expected for the current fiscal year. Postmaster General Benjamin F. Baily said in November as he announced the first quarterly surplus, that he hoped the year's deficit could be held to $500 million.

"The deficit could be considerably less than $500 million," a source said Thursday. "But there still will be a deficit."

The Postal Service says it has accomplished the recent surpluses mainly by trimming its workforce through attrition.

The black ink comes as major changes are being considered in the Postal Service. A commission established last year is due to report to Congress by March 15 with recommendations about changes.

Plaintiff in suit in police custody

Nicholas Dominique, 22, 319 West Sixth, was arrested by Ron Hoskins, drug investigator for the Sedalia police department, following the presentation of a rather unusual case in Magistrate Court Friday morning.

Dominique filed a $90 suit against Sheila Karigan, 416 East 12th, on Jan. 3. He claimed he made a $90 loan to Miss Karigan on April 15, 1975, and that she failed to repay it as agreed on April 20 of that year. The suit was filed as a small claims court suit. Those cases are heard by the Magistrate Court.

According to Magistrate Hazel Palmer, who heard the case, Dominique took the stand and said he made a loan to Mrs. Karigan for $90 on the date specified in the suit. Miss Karigan, her brother, Robert J. Karigan, and Michael Bell followed him to the stand, Judge Palmer said, and all three claimed the debt was over a quarter-pound of marijuana allegedly sold to Miss Karigan by Dominique.

Judge Palmer said she overruled Dominique's suit because there was no evidence to indicate that Dominique had loaned any money to Miss Karigan.

Dominique was upset by that ruling, according to reports, and left the courtroom after Judge Palmer told him he had 10 days to file an appeal in the case.

Dominique was approached by Hoskins outside the courtroom and a scuffle ensued. Dominique was placed in a Sedalia police car and driven away from the courthouse after both additional police and sheriff's deputies were called to the courthouse, shortly after 10 a.m.

Randall Silvey, newly-named information officer for the Sedalia police department, said late Friday morning he had no information on Dominique's arrest.

Vance outlines agenda in talks with Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance has outlined an ambitious negotiating schedule for his upcoming trip to the Soviet Union, planning talks on general arms reduction and a possible reduction in the number of weapons in each nation's nuclear arsenals.

In an interview Thursday, Vance also spoke of the "critical importance" of cutting back arms sales around the world, and he all but buried the "linkage" theory held dear by his predecessor, Henry A. Kissinger.

"I think there has been an overemphasis on linkage," Vance said about the concept of tying progress in one diplomatic area to conduct in another. The important questions facing the two superpowers and the world, he said, must be dealt with as separate issues.

"Take, for example, negotiations in the arms field, and more specifically, the SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty) negotiations," he said in an interview with The Associated Press and United Press International.

"I think it clearly is in the interest of both nations and in the interest of world peace for us to reach a satisfactory negotiated settlement with them without linking up other issues."

Vance took questions for 35 minutes, sitting comfortably at a coffee table in his State Department office. Besides SALT and arms control, Vance also clarified the Carter administration's

Ethiopia coup fails

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — The chairman and six other members of Ethiopia's ruling military council have been killed in the third major power struggle within the ruling group since the overthrow of Emperor Haile Selassie 28 months ago, the survivors announced.

Addis Ababa's midnight-to-dawn curfew was advanced to 9 p.m. after a shootout Thursday at the headquarters of the military government. Radio Ethiopia reported scattered, sporadic gunfire in the city Thursday morning, but in general the city was calm.

An official statement said Brig. Gen. Teferi Bante, the chairman of the council, and six other members plotted to kill "progressive" members of the 40-man Central Committee and move the Ethiopian revolution to the right.

The statement said shooting broke out after the plot was exposed, three "loyal" members of the council were killed, and the seven plotters were executed. They included the secretary of the Central Committee's standing committee, the head of the council's information committee and the chairman of the political committee.

As chairman of the Central Committee, Bante was Ethiopia's chief of state. Recently he had also been named commander in chief of the armed forces and head of security. But the first and second vice chairmen of the council, Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam and Lt. Col. Atenafu Abate, were considered more powerful, and both of them were reported "safe and sound."

The statement said the seven plotters had been exposed as secret members of the underground leftist Ethiopian Peoples Revolutionary Party (EPRP) and as supporters of the rightist Ethiopian Democratic Union.

A speech by the general Sunday calling on "progressives" to unite was actually a signal to the EPRP to prepare for a coup which would give him full control, the statement said.

The statement also spoke of "imperialist" involvement and said: "We will now join progressive Ethiopians who have raised their voices to say, 'Down with imperialists, down with bureaucratic capitalism, and down with the CIA."

Col. Mariam came to the forefront in the first power struggle in November, 1974, two months after the monarchy was overthrown. The military council's first chairman, Gen. Aman Michael Andom, and 59 other officers and officials were executed.

Snow in Northeast

Flooding danger slim

WASHINGTON (AP) — As tons of snow layering the Northeast melt, experts say there should be no major flooding problems unless the thaw is accompanied by extraordinarily warm weather and heavy rain.

National Weather Service officials said Thursday that thawing usually occurs from the end of February through March or April.

Barring unusual circumstances, the rivers and streams of the East should be able to accommodate the billions of gallons of water melting off the snow pack, they said.

Most rivers will rise and many may reach up to their flood stages, but few overflows are expected, they said.

Robert A. Clark, the weather service's associate director for hydrology, said the flood threat is greatest in the Northeast, particularly along the Ohio River and its tributaries and the Kanawha River in West Virginia.

But he added: "The potential for flooding is not extremely serious. We would need fairly rapid thawing combined with warm rain to really get into trouble."

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, responsible for the nation's flood control, said an added buffer is that most rivers and flood control reservoirs in the Ohio River area now have below normal water levels.

"The 70 reservoirs throughout the Ohio River basin are all low and the river also is at a lower than normal level," said John Lane of the corps' Ohio River division. "We have never had a flood in this basin caused directly by snow melt."

Richard Drummond, a spokesman for the corps' Lower Mississippi Valley division, said the Mississippi below Cairo, Ill., where the Ohio enters it, also is very low.

"We actually have a problem with low water and will be dredging in some areas to make (the river) deeper so traffic can navigate," Drummond said.

The corps spokesman said the biggest problems may come from ice floes.

Special section looks at farming

The Democrat-Capital will feature its annual farm section Sunday, with tips and forecasts on today's farming problems.

The recent drought in the central Missouri area, its effects on local farm operations, aids and long-range forecasts will highlight the section. Irrigation, cattle, dairy, chicken, hog, feed, planting and many other aspects of today's farm will be explored, along with advice on better operations and future trends.

The Democrat-Capital combined efforts with the College of Agriculture and Extension Division of the University of Missouri-Columbia, the Missouri Department of Agriculture and Pettis County Extension Service to present this section.

Clean-up crew

Although most streets throughout Sedalia are clear of snow and ice, some side streets still have their problems. This street department crew worked Friday morning clearing Moniteau near Main using a grader and earth mover. The mountain of ice and snow in the foreground was eventually loaded in a dump truck and hauled away.

Death penalty argued before state jurists

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The constitutionality of Missouri's death penalty for crimes of capital murder was questioned today before the state Supreme Court.

The seven-judge panel heard three sets of arguments against the statute, which calls for the use of the death penalty for a person who kills another human being "with premeditation."

Citing U.S. Supreme Court decisions handed down last July invalidating capital punishment statutes in other states, attorney Edward Stratemeyer told the court Missouri's statute should likewise be struck down because it was similar to the death penalty laws of those states.

Stratemeyer was representing Billy Duren, who was accused of capital murder in an indictment handed down in connection with the beating death of a 19-year-old inmate at the Jackson County Jail. But the indictment was dismissed in Jackson County Circuit Court on the ground that the capital murder statutes are unconstitutional.

The state appealed the circuit court dismissals to the Supreme Court.

Stratemeyer told the court Missouri's

Study says health plans need more cost controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two major health insurance plans pay out millions of dollars for government workers' medical expenses not covered by their insurance policies, contributing to spiraling premiums partly paid by the taxpayers, a government report says.

An investigation by the General Accounting Office concluded that loose, haphazard cost controls and overpayments by the two government-wide health insurers contributed to a 35 per cent increase in premium charges in the government programs last year.

The two companies probed by government auditors are Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Aetna Life & Casualty, which together insure more than six million of the 9.3 million federal employees and their dependents who have health insurance.

"Prices may continue skyward if the Civil Service Commission and the insurance carriers do not strictly control insurance costs," said the report, signed by U.S. Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats, chief of the congressional watchdog agency.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield called the report "exaggerated and misleading" and said it is based on often erroneous assumptions.

Aetna said it appreciated an opportunity to study the findings and agreed to make several changes aimed at tightening controls.

The government and its employees share almost equally the premium costs, estimated at $2.9 billion in the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

The payment practices criticized by the GAO generally benefit employees who incur medical expenses and use their health insurance, although all employees pay in the end through the increased premiums.

The loser is the taxpayer who, in the final analysis, pays the government's share of the costs and gets none of the benefits.

The investigation only applied to the government employees' plans. The study did not attempt to determine whether similar practices occur in private group health plans sold by Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Aetna.

Cost controls are a central issue in the debate over national health insurance, which President Carter has promised to implement during his administration. The two government health plans now operating — Medicare for the elderly and Medicaid for the poor — are regularly criticized for their ever increasing costs.

Based on a poll of 373 employees, the investigators said Blue Shield may have paid more than $8 million to doctors and hospitals for routine physical examinations and Pap smears for cervical cancer, neither of which is supposed to be covered by the Blue Cross-Blue Shield policy.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield said it did not believe the poll was valid because subscribers can't be expected to know whether they had routine physicals or tests that would be covered by insurance.

Examination of the insur

ers' books revealed other evidence that Blue Shield was paying for routine physicals without investigating the claims more closely, the auditors said.

The report said about 13.5 per cent of the claims examined by investigators at 19 Blue Cross-Blue Shield offices around the country, were paid without meeting the requirements of the government's contract with the firm.

Russian brother has wet pleurisy

Dear Dr. Lamb — I received a letter from my brother, age 62, who lives in the Soviet Union. He was hospitalized for 35 days in an emergency hospital. It was determined that he had lung trouble in his right lung. It was filling with fluid which was removed. He was sent home and stayed in bed for 10 days and then went back to work as a teacher.

He continues to have pain in his right side. When he comes home from school he goes straight to bed. It was diagnosed as "wet pleurisy." He was told the only cure was medicine which is available in the United States.

My family doctor gave me a prescription for isoniazid. Since it is not permitted to send medicine to the Soviet Union, I found a friend who is going for a visit there and will deliver it for me.

What is the cause and what is the cure? There has never been this type of illness in our family. My father died at the age of 90 and my uncle is still living in the old country at the age of 88. I'd appreciate it if you would answer my question as I am very concerned about my brother.

Dear Reader — The term "wet pleurisy" is not used in this country, but I assume from your description it must be wet pleurisy. This means an accumulation of fluid in the chest cavity surrounding the right lung. Fluid in that location or on the left side can be withdrawn with a needle which I presume is what you mean by being pulled out.

Fluid in the chest cavity may be caused by many different heart disease and even cancer of the lung. It can be associated with pleurisy — inflammation of the linings of the lung and chest cavity. The cause in some instances is never established.

Isoniazid is used to treat tuberculosis. I do not recommend taking it without close supervision of a doctor. It won't cure anything but tuberculosis and that could be the cause of your brother's illness.

If so, he would again need careful supervision, not only for the isoniazid treatment but also of his progress in overcoming the disease. My guess is that your brother does not have tuberculosis. If he did I am sure the doctors in the Soviet Union would have treated him quite differently.

The soreness is no doubt from the pleurisy reaction and pleuritic pain is associated with muscle spasms involving the small muscles between the ribs. Binding the chest sometimes gives relief by preventing movement of the muscles. Heat applications may also help.

I am skeptical that there are any medicines we have here that are not available in the Soviet Union. Remember, the Soviet doctors can get medical information and medicines from most countries in the world and we have a fairly free flow of medical information worldwide. (NEA)

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns grocery carts in the supermarkets. Many times I see shoppers park their carts in the middle of an aisle. Then they stand to one side while taking their purchases off the shelf. No one can get by them. It would be so helpful to grocery shoppers, some of whom are in a hurry, if carts were parked on only one side of the aisle. Thanks for listening. — MRS. R.H.C.

DEAR POLLY — I find that spray starch works wonders for removing creases from polyester materials which are left when a dress is lengthened. You may have to repeat the process. Too much spray starch will cling to your iron but it is easily removed with a damp cloth. — BESSIE.

DEAR POLLY — I was once "done in" by a little boy who whipped a marking pen out of his pocket during Sunday School and marked my wool dress. The ink was permanent, but turned out to be soluble in alcohol. Maybe Wendy will find this a help with her daughter's dress. — LOIS.

DEAR LOIS and other readers — Do test the effect of the alcohol first. It causes some colors to run, and do not use it on acetate. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — Recently I made a discovery that I think will be of interest to other homemakers. When washing tile floors, and you wish to remove the wax, put a cup of washing (not baking) soda in a quart of hot water to dissolve it. Let stand for five minutes. This is easier than using any stripper I have ever tried and the floor is whiter. It is also economical. Even a large box of washing soda is still quite inexpensive. — FLO.

Grain industry appealing to revamp inspection law

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the ink scarcely dry on a new law providing for federal inspection of grain, the grain industry is appealing to Congress to change the law.

Eleven weeks after establishment of the Federal Grain Inspection Service in response to widespread scandals last year in grain inspection, numerous representatives of the industry complained Thursday about the new law.

Hannibal judge named

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Joseph Teasdale Thursday appointed a Hannibal judge to the Missouri Court of Appeals, St. Louis District.

Judge James R. Reinhard will replace Judge Albert L. Rendlen, also from Hannibal, who was recently appointed to the state Supreme Court.

Reinhard, 47, has served four years as circuit court judge from the 10th Judicial Circuit which includes Marion, Monroe and Ralls counties.

Teasdale said he chose Reinhard over two other candidates because he felt rural Missouri is suffering from an imbalance on the court. Most of the other judges are from the St. Louis metropolitan area.

Reinhard served as Sullivan County prosecuting attorney from 1955-57 and as Monroe County prosecuting attorney from 1959-65. He was special assistant state attorney general from 1967-68.

A member of the Northeast Missouri State University Board of Regents from 1965-73, Reinhard served as board president from 1967-73.

Reinhard received his bachelor's degree in 1951 and his law degree in 1953 from the University of Missouri.

Knievel undergoes bone graft surgery

CHICAGO (AP) — Daredevil Evel Knievel has successfully undergone a bone graft operation on his right forearm, broken earlier this week during a motorcycle crash, a hospital spokesman said.

Doctors at Michael Reese Hospital performed the bone graft Thursday and placed a plate in the arm, fractured Monday during a practice leap over a 90-foot-long tank filled with sharks. Knievel was to have performed a similar leap that night on a television special.

He was injured when he lost control of his motorcycle on landing. Knievel later blamed the mishap on pressure from promoters of the event and on unsafe conditions.

By 1985, U.S. industry will use some 24 million tons of iron castings a year, approximately 20 per cent more than the 20 million tons used today, says Thomas R. Wiltsie, president of the American Foundrymen's Society.

Agreement reached by base and local county firemen

A mutual aid agreement between the Pettis County Fire Protection District and the Whiteman Air Force Base fire department has been signed, it was announced at the district's board of directors' monthly meeting Thursday.

Her mutual aid agreements to be approved by surrounding fire departments in Pettis County will be sent to those departments this month.

The board also announced that building materials for a new fire station, to be located just east of Southwood Acres on 40th Street, are expected to arrive next week. The steel building materials are being purchased from Binkley Steel Buildings, Warrenton. Construction of the station will have to wait until the weather improves and a foundation can be poured.

Minor damage is done to police van

The Sedalia police van received only scratched paint when it was struck by a car after responding to a call in the Anthony Buckner Apartments Friday morning.

Police reported that officer Jack Pearson, 23, was backing out on the parking lot at Robinson Court about 10:15 a.m. Friday when a car driven by Phyllis D. Brown, 23, 427 Buckner Court, collided with the rear of the van. The car also had minor damage.

No one was injured.

Cooper named energy officer for the county

Clyde Cooper, 42, 2700 Wing, was named Friday by the Pettis County Court as the county's volunteer energy officer. He is a quality control engineer for Rival Manufacturing Co.

The court was asked to appoint an energy officer Thursday in a letter from Gov. Joseph Teasdale. The duties of the officer, Teasdale explained, will be to report any local fuel problems that arise to state officials and to develop local emergency operating plans in the event of severe shortages.

Cooper can be reached at home (826-9493), his office (826-6600) or through the Pettis County Court (826-4892).

Cooper Friday said he will handle requests from residents as well as local businesses, manufacturing plants, schools and churches. When persons anticipate a fuel shortage for their home or institution, they should inform him immediately and tell him approximately how many day's worth of fuel they have left, Cooper said.

Cooper will also work with local commercial fuel distributors to help them secure fuel when needed.

After he has sufficient information about a particular case, Cooper will contact officials of the Missouri Energy Agency in Jefferson City, which is a part of the State Department of Natural Resources. He will continue to serve as a liaison between consumers and the state agencies designed to help them in fuel emergencies.

Asked why he agreed to assume the non-paying position, Cooper, a relative new-comer to Sedalia, said, "I just want to be a part of the community and do what I can to help."

Filing will open for school board

Persons wishing to file as candidates for the Sedalia Board of Education may do so from next Monday through Feb. 25 at the board offices at Fourth and Moniteau.

Two persons will be elected April 5 to fill three-year terms on the board. Board members whose terms will expire are Mrs. Jane Dugan and Paul Klover. Klover was elected last April to fill the unexpired term of former board member Mrs. Jean Hausam, who moved from the city.

Contacted Friday, Klover said he has not decided whether he will run for a full three-year term. Mrs. Dugan was not available for comment.

Those wishing to file may do so at the board offices from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

CB radio reported stolen from car

Kenneth Siron, Route 2, reported to police Thursday the theft of a CB radio Wednesday from his vehicle parked at the Red Apple Lanes, 3200 West Broadway. The radio was valued at $110.

In other police news:

— Officials of W and M Welding, 508 West Second, Wednesday reported to police the theft of 57 blank payroll checks sometime during the past 10 days.

Drug trial is ordered after hearing here

One of three persons arrested at State Fair Motor Inn, 32nd and Limit, on Dec. 10 in what was termed one of the largest marijuana confessions in the Sedalia police department's history, was bound over to Circuit Court for trial following his preliminary hearing Friday morning.

Bruce McCauley, 22, Irving, Tex., is charged with possession of a controlled substance, reportedly about 35 pounds of marijuana. He was arrested in Room 108 of the motel about 9 a.m. on Dec. 10 along with Darrel Hand, 23, Houston, Tex., and Kent Craig, 25, Sedalia.

Craig was released, according to authorities, pending further investigation.

Charges of possessing marijuana against Hand were dismissed by Magistrate Judge Hazel Palmer following his preliminary hearing on Jan. 5. No evidence or testimony were given, she ruled, to show that Hand was connected with the offense.

Judge George Mitchell, magistrate from Johnson County, held McCauley's preliminary hearing after Judge Palmer was disqualified.

McCauley remains free on $3,500 bond.

Mathewson sponsors tax rebate bill for poor, elderly

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The House Committee on Revenue and Economics heard testimony Thursday on a bill that would give Missouri's elderly poor a rebate on sales tax they pay during the year.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. James L. Mathewson, D-Sedalia, would give Missourians over 65 who earn $7,500 or less a tax credit of $25.

The original bill called for a $35 credit but Mathewson said it was estimated that would cost the state $16 million. The estimated cost for the new rate, which would be taken off income tax returns, is $7.5 million.

The bill is designed to give back sales tax that persons in that age and income bracket would spend during the year.

statute should be held invalid because it did not provide defendants with the right to first be tried on the crime, with another hearing set later on the sentencing.

Missouri's statute, Stratemeyer argued, prohibited the jury from handing down any other sentence than death for those convicted of capital murder. It did not allow for the introduction of mitigating circumstances which might show the need for a lesser sentence.

But assistant state Atty. Gen. Preston Dean, who was defending the state law, told the judges that there was "no rigid standard" which could be applied to determine the Missouri law's constitutionality.

The judges fired dozens of questions to lawyers on both sides of the issue, inquiring as much about what would happen if the statute were thrown out as about the constitutionality of the statute itself.

The court also heard similar arguments today in two cases from Greene County.

Missouri's death penalty law was approved by the legislature in 1975 and went into effect in September of that year after being signed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

Essentially, it was written by an opponent to capital punishment. When the proposed capital punishment bill was being considered in the state Senate, it would have provided the death penalty for about a dozen specific types of crimes.

But then-state Sen. Lawrence Lee, a St. Louis Democrat and defense lawyer opposed to the death penalty, successfully amended the measure to call for the ultimate punishment for all types of premeditated murder. It was that version which was finally approved by the legislature.

'Big truck' bill gets initial OK by Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Increases for truck weight and length limits gained first-round approval in the state Senate Thursday on a voice vote.

The "big truck" bill, which would raise the weight and length limits for trucks operating in Missouri, still needs final approval before being sent to the House for further consideration.

Under provisions of the bill, which is sponsored by Senate President Pro Tem Norman Merrell, truck weight limits would be increased from 73,280 pounds to 80,000 pounds and lengths would be allowed to go from 55 feet to 60 feet.

Missouri is an obstacle to cross country operations of trucks bound for the east and west coasts, argued Merrell, a Monticello Democrat. More goods could be carried per load, Merrell added, thus lowering the transportation costs per item and aid the consumer.

St. Louis Democrats John Schneider and John Scott both attempted, unsuccessfully, to amend Merrell's bill to increase fees further, saying more money was needed to compensate the state Highway Department which will have to repair road damage caused by the heavier trucks.

Road damage caused by the increased weights would cost $25 million to $30 million to repair annually, according to the Missouri Automobile Club.

Merrell, however, said the Highway Department estimated an increase in repair costs of only $8 million per year, adding that the increase in fees called for by his bill would bring in an additional $3 million to the state.

Kansas City Democrat Harry Wiggins asked Merrell to delay action on the measure until more information could be collected. But Merrell rebuffed the request, saying the Senate had all the information it needed to consider the "big truck" bill.

Scott attempted to amend the bill to provide penalty provisions on trucks which exceed the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, but Merrell who

Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale, after ending the issuance of low numbered license plates this year, has asked the legislature to enact a personalized plate measure under which motorists wanting special plates could get them for an additional charge. He has indicated the charge should be about $24.

Ashcroft issues opinion on taxes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Ashcroft says the state Conservation Commission, under existing law, cannot reimburse counties for tax money lost through passage of a one-eighth cent sales tax for conservation.

Missouri voters in November approved by a close margin the state sales tax increase, which will be used to generate an anticipated $20 million yearly for the Department of Conservation to implement its conservation plans. Part of the program calls for acquiring 121,000 acres of land throughout the state.

Once purchased by the state, however, that land could no longer be subject to county real estate taxes. That means county revenue would likely drop.

In the opinion, which does not carry the weight of law or of a court decision, the attorney general reports the Conservation Commission is "under no duty or obligation to make real property tax payments to county or other Missouri governments." And further, the opinion says the commission can not make such payments, even if it desires to.

The commission had requested the attorney general's opinion to learn whether it could be allowed to pay property taxes or payments in lieu of the taxes to the counties to compensate them for revenue lost when the property was removed from the property tax rolls.

But Ashcroft's opinion notes a section of the Missouri Constitution which "specifically limits the use of commission funds" in the commission's expenditure powers.

Funds may only be used for the control, management, restoration, conservation and regulation of the bird, fish, game, forestry and wildlife resources of the state, including the purchase ... of property for said purposes," the constitution says. It also notes funds may be used for "no other purpose."

The Missouri Association of Counties had asked the Conservation Commission in November to reimburse counties for the drop in property tax revenue which it believed would result from state acquisition of the county land.

Fire destroys shops on Gallatin square

GALLATIN, Mo. (AP) — A fire destroyed the buildings housing two businesses and heavily damaged two others on the west side of the courthouse square in this northwest Missouri town.

It was brought under control about noon after burning for more than two hours Thursday morning. There were no immediate estimates on the losses.

Officials reported a man who was in front of a burning barber shop when its window blew out was cut on a leg by glass and the wound required 15 stitches.

Mrs. John Bradshaw, who with her husband operates a flower shop, said she heard breaking glass, went to the back of the store and found a wall of flame based near a furnace.

The fire spread quickly and destroyed the next building on the south, housing John Tomlinson's insurance and real estate office.

Frank Jones, whose barber shop is next on the south, said his place might as well have been destroyed. There was heavy damage at the Delmar Rodgers fabric shop, next in line. The back part of its roof fell in.

The roof caught fire at Ray Moore's American Motors dealership, the first building north of Bradshaw's flower shop, but it was not extensively damaged.

Gallatin is about 75 miles northeast of Kansas City and has an official population of 1,833. Fire department's at Hamilton and Pattonsburg, Mo., came to help.

Gallatin is among the towns in the area which have been fighting water shortages because of three dry crop years and severe drought since early last summer. But for fire-fighting emergencies, Gallatin has a pump line to the Grand River at the edge of town.

Suggestions have been made that the state build a gas chamber, but Benton said that would cost $250,000 to $300,000.

He said that could mean the state would make a substantial expenditure only to find the method outlawed by the court.

Kennedy off hotseat with Carter in control

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the political pressure is off — at least for now. He's no longer seen as the Democrats' permanent, floating prospective presidential candidate, and he likes it this way.

Puffing the stub of a small cigar, Kennedy catalogued the issues on which he means to be heard — which doesn't preclude many — and said he thinks he can be more effective in dealing with them now.

With President Carter in the White House, and the Democratic cause firmly set for at least four years and probably eight, Kennedy's role is clear, too. It is in the Senate.

Before Carter, Kennedy said, the positions he took and the programs he pushed were constantly suspect, assessed as moves that might be part of a coming presidential campaign.

He constantly denied it, repeatedly foreswore presidential candidacy, but the suspicion persisted. No longer, though.

"Being a senator, the issue or cause that you're interested in may not be as highlighted, but there may be more credibility," Kennedy said.

Of course the senator from Massachusetts, beginning his third full term at age 44, does have a political base and national recognition that can highlight his causes.

Furthermore, he is not ruling out national candidacy forever. He simply isn't discussing it.

"I look at the here and now and the foreseeable future," he said.

"We've got a president, and I think he's gotten off to a splendid start. I think he'll be reelected," Kennedy said.

If Carter is re-elected, and if it is with Vice President Walter F. Mondale, that takes care of the Democratic ticket through 1984. At that point, Mondale, now 49, probably would be in a commanding position to claim Democratic leadership.

Kennedy knows that.

"I think I've been rather philosophical about public life, and I'll continue to be," he said.

In the Senate and in appearances elsewhere, Kennedy said, he intends to press such issues as national health insurance, welfare and tax reform, arms control, energy problems, economic measures.

He is about to become chairman of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, and he sees that as a forum for action that could affect energy and economic measures. He is chairman of the board of governors of the Office of Technology Assessment, a congressional research agency, and he wants to make that more active. He heads a health subcommittee, serves on the joint economic committee.

$7.50 dispute

Rule still holds for irate farmer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The northwest Missouri farmer who began moving a bulldozer over his land because the state told him he would have to buy a $7.50 license to hunt on it will get no exemption now from the state Conservation Department.

Conservation information officer Jim Keefe said the question of exemptions for persons wanting to hunt on their own land was discussed at the department's committee regulation meeting Thursday and was put aside "for further study."

Earlier this week, Lucien Smith bought a $30,000 bulldozer and started plowing under land he had saved for 22 years for his children and grandchildren. When told he would have to buy a $7.50 license to continue hunting on the 200 acres of his farm he has maintained in its natural condition, Smith began plowing it under.

Smith's land covers at least 500 acres on the Missouri River in Missouri, near the Iowa and Nebraska border. If the state would change its regulation, Smith said, "we'd stop cleaning it out. I don't want to do what I'm doing, but I'm being forced to."

Until two years ago, the local game commissioner allowed Smith to hunt without a license under a state game commission regulation which allows farmers to hunt on the land they live on. The exemption was allowed only for those farmers in order to prevent wealthy sportsmen from buying land and hunting on it without a license, Keefe said.

But a Rockport, Mo. conservation agent began getting complaints from Smith's neighbors, who said Smith's woodland was separated from the land on which he lives by a road and a strip of land belonging to someone else.

The agent then told Smith he would need a license to hunt on the land.

Smith purchased a license last year, but refused to this year. "I will not put up with feeding wildlife all year and then pay them (the state) to let me go hunting," Smith said.

Keefe said there were some "inconsistencies" in Smith's situation.

"Mr. Smith claims to love wildlife and set aside the land for his children," Keefe said. "If he really believed that he wouldn't be bulldozing it because of a $7.50 license. You can buy a helluva lot of permits for $30,000—the cost of the bulldozer."

"If it's a matter of principle, I still can't understand bulldozing a wildlife habitat," he added.

Wildlife, by law, is the property of the state, Keefe said, not the landowner. But the state Conservation Department realizes most wildlife in Missouri is raised on private lands and "we want to get along with landowners. Most landowners understand the situation."

Invalid dies in wheelchair after blaze

KANSAS CITY (AP) — An elderly invalid woman, left alone while her husband was a walk, burned to death in their home Thursday when flames engulfed her wheelchair.

The body of Mrs. Frances Griffin, 80, who had been confined to a wheelchair since she fell and injured her back two years ago, was found by firemen when they entered the home.

Her husband, Homer Griffin, 82, told authorities he had gone for a walk for exercise at his wife's insistence.

"There was no chance with this woman," said Benny Imperial, deputy fire chief. "The woman was probably dead when the alarm was turned in. There was no other damage to the house at all."

No exact cause for the fire was immediately determined.

The fire department was notified by the Griffin's next door neighbor, who went to investigate after he smelled smoke while getting tools from his back yard to repair his car.

No crisis, no action is our pattern

Rowan

WASHINGTON — It has taken several acts of God—cruel blizzards and a devastatingly cold winter — to awaken us Americans to our worst qualities:

—We are a people spoiled by abundance, unwilling and almost incapable of voluntarily accepting even remote reductions in our standards of life — let alone measures that approach the spartan or the austere.

—We are an arrogant people, persisting in the belief that we can forever consume a grossly disproportionate share of the world's energy — even while dictating to others how much they may charge us for their petroleum.

—We are a crisis-oriented society, rarely rising to any challenge until we are eyeball-to-eyeball with disaster.

After the great energy crisis burst upon the U.S. in the fall of 1973, President Richard Nixon said to the nation: "The average American will consume as much energy in the next seven days as most other people in the world will consume in an entire year. We have only 6 per cent of the world's people in America, but we consume over 30 per cent of all the energy in the world."

Mr. Nixon said we Americans must "tighten our belts," adding: "Let us pledge that by 1980, under Project Independence, we shall be able to meet America's energy needs from America's own energy resources."

Very few belts remain tight these days and Project Independence is all but forgotten by the average American. The U.S. is more vulnerable to an Arab oil embargo today than it was in 1973.

Our own production of oil has dropped sharply, and will go down further; our imports are up almost 50 per cent; and we go on gobbling up petroleum (at the ridiculous rate of almost 20 million barrels a day last month) as though the earth's supply is limitless.

President Carter has responded symbolically to the present energy crisis by putting on his long underwear and turning down the White House thermostat. But the real challenge to him demands far more than that. Can he lead us away from the soft greed and the hard arrogance that cause us to slumber until we are faced with dire emergencies?

So much more than a bitter-cold winter causing closed schools, stores and factories is involved.

Civil defense will be a joke in this country until war actually begins.

We let racism and job discrimination run rampant until angry blacks began burning down the cities in the 1960s. Then the federal government got busy: commissions were appointed; a National Alliance of Businessmen decided it could find jobs for the hard-core unemployed; promises were made to stop the drift toward "two societies, one black, one white, separate and unequal."

The flames were doused, a measure of tranquility restored. And now millions of jobless see the old indifference, racism is again ascendant in the highest circles, and the drift toward two separate societies is even speedier, thanks to Supreme Court rulings that have greased the skids of racism and snobbery.

We Americans got excited about doing justice regarding our most flagrant example of naked colonialism—the Panama Canal — after rioting erupted in 1964. But when the emergency passed, millions of Americans reverted to attitudes more destructively benighted than those held by the dumbest of French settlers in Algeria.

It took the crisis of an apparent Soviet triumph in Angola, thanks to Cuban troops, to wake Henry Kissinger up to the urgency of the situation in southern Africa. But does anyone really expect the U.S. to take bold action in that area before it is faced with new emergencies in Rhodesia, Namibia or South Africa? Perhaps the mentality and vitality of America are now so burdened that neither Mr. Carter nor any other leader can inspire us to do the right things when there is no crisis.

Film, TV violence too much

By DOUG KNEIBERT

In my own personal list of the half dozen most important problems facing the United States, violence on TV and in the movies has not rated that high. But lately I have come around to the view that we do have a serious problem here after all. Better late than never, I guess.

What brought about this attitude change? No one thing. I've been influenced by the studies I've read on the subject, other people I've talked to, but perhaps more than anything else by what I've seen with my own eyes on both TV and in motion pictures.

Some people just don't know when to stop. Take the Manson killings. They were bad enough in life (or death, if you will), but why do we need all of this served back up to us in a TV movie?

Convicted murderer Michael Edward Drabing of Lincoln, Ill., testified that he knifed to death three members of a rural family after viewing "Helter Skelter" in March of 1976, taking his inspiration directly from the way the film depicted Manson and his fanatical followers. This was the movie that CBS recently rebroadcast.

We recently made a family outing to a movie at which the previews spewed out a steady stream of violence, in living color, from two coming attractions. Smashing cars, shattering glass, loud music, gunshots, blood and explosions filled the screen in a kaleidoscope of violence.

What is the effect of this sort of thing on kids? Or adults for that matter? That's what has a lot of people worried these days.

To the potentially deviant mind, the Drabings and their like, steady exposure to make-believe violence may be what it takes to put them over the line. But the most insidious effect may be on otherwise normal people, who slowly but surely are inured to violence. They become the New York apartment dwellers who watched Kitty Genovese being stabbed to death on a street corner and never raised a finger to provide or summon help.

The violence-is-fun approach probably reached its zenith with the new coin-operated game, "Death Race." This is the one where the player racks up points for the number of pedestrians he can run down on his screen. The game was an arcade feature at last summer's State Fair. Its inventor ought to be sentenced to six months' ambulance duty on, say, California Highway 101.

It all makes you wonder whether we're that far removed, after all, from the Roman coliseum.

There are some signs that things may get better. The American Medical Association recently described TV violence as "an environmental hazard that threatens the life of America." The national PTA has targeted TV violence as its number one priority. Perhaps partly as a result of such pressure, NBC has announced that it will play down violence in its new fall season.

In my view this is the best approach — voluntary action on the part of television and the movies (which in degree are much worse) to reduce the level of violence. The cure would be worse than the disease if government were to become the arbiter of what Americans are permitted to see.

The primary circus: don't compound it Does Missouri need a presidential primary? Secretary of State Jim Kirkpatrick had some sensible words of caution on this point before a House committee hearing this week.

The legislature is considering a bill that would establish a presidential primary in April, to run concurrent with municipal elections across the state.

An agent for Billy

Shucks, now they've gone and ruined Billy Carter.

The President's brother is now an official celebrity, having signed a contract with Top Billing Inc., a Nashville PR firm that represents the famous. Billy, the embodiment of the Southern "good ole boy," now presumably will have his rough edges smoothed and his heretofore unpredictable words and behavior carefully orchestrated for best effect.

Billy, I think we liked you better the old way.

Backers of the bill say it would stimulate voter interest and participation and give the state some added prestige in the presidential sweepstakes.

Kirkpatrick made the good point that individual primaries become less and less important as their numbers increase. Already 30 states have presidential primaries, and Missouri's entry into this already over-crowded field would not cause that big a ripple.

Four states already hold primaries on the date set for Missouri, Kirkpatrick pointed out, and all of them are larger than this state.

The nation, instead of adding states to the primary circuit, should be moving in just the opposite direction by establishing some system of regional primaries. Every four years it again becomes obvious that the primaries may be more a test of sheer physical endurance than political preference. We agree with the secretary of state that it would be hasty to adopt a primary in Missouri until we see what Congress is going to do in this regard.

We've lived this long without it. We can live a little longer.

"Which would you like first, the report on the economy or the weather?"

By JACK ANDERSON and
LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — President Jimmy Carter has just about given up hope of keeping energy prices under control.

Sources in the eye of the controversy tell us that the President will concentrate first on providing the nation with enough energy to keep its homes warm and its factories operating. Then he will worry about how to finance it.

The cost could be terrifying. Here are the President's own grim expectations, according to sources familiar with his thinking:

Carter will try to keep a hold on the regulatory levers. But he believes it will be necessary to let up on the levers to produce the necessary natural gas and fuel oil.

The President recognizes unhappily that his proposed $31.2 billion economic stimulus will merely finance an upsurge in oil and gas prices. The $50 tax rebates he has promised all Americans will go to higher fuel bills.

Realistically, he expects the upward push to defy his efforts to hold down oil and gas prices. The icy weather has also shriveled winter crops, killed off livestock, forced factory layoffs, closed

But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves. For if any one is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man who observes his natural face in a mirror; for he observes himself and goes away and at once forgets what he was like. — James 1:22-24.

There are no controls on the price of natural gas in Texas, the study notes, yet Texas producers are warning of an imminent gas shortage. "No amount of money will bring what doesn't exist out of the ground," an investigator told us.

U.S. is more vulnerable to an Arab oil embargo today than it was in 1973.

Merry-go-round

Carter's dilemma on energy crisis schools and caused extensive damage. This could throw his economic program into a tailspin before he can get it launched.

The President is aware that turning down the White House thermostats to 65 degrees may be a small gesture. But he will exert his moral leadership to persuade Americans to conserve energy. Before the energy crisis is over, the citizenry may have to put up with some privations.

The energy controversy, meanwhile, continues to rage in the backrooms of Washington. Treasury experts have warned Carter in confidential briefing papers that the nation's dependence on imported oil "will rise to about 50 per cent by 1985." The natural gas shortage will also continue for the next two winters, although new wells may increase the supply in the 1980s.

The free market should be permitted to act upon the price, supply and demand, both of crude oil and new natural gas," the briefing papers urge. The higher prices, contend the documents, "would tend to increase exploration and development, bring on additional supply and reduce demand."

But a confidential report prepared for Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., argues that higher energy prices would not lead to increased oil and gas production.

Although oil prices have quadrupled since 1973, the report points out, domestic oil production has declined. Natural gas prices have jumped a startling 760 per cent in the last 11 years, yet the industry still says it needs higher prices to encourage exploration.

When Sadat cautiously tried to reduce this billion-dollar subsidy, riots erupted in the streets. What worries U.S. policymakers is that Egypt's economic deterioration might precipitate Sadat's downfall. They regard him as an able leader whose moderate policies have kept the Arab world from taking a sharp left turn.

The treasury papers warn that price controls on oil and gas discourage the development of alternative fuels. As long as oil and gas are comparatively cheap, there is no incentive to find new energy sources. "Because the lead time for these alternate fuels is so long," add the documents, "a severe shortage could result."

But a powerful congressional bloc, led by Moss, contends that big energy price increases will merely squeeze consumers and torpedo the nation's economic recovery. The only beneficiaries, these congressmen believe, will be the oil and gas companies.

EGYPTIAN CRISIS: A confidential report on Egypt's economic crisis warns tersely that the Egyptian government "is simply unwilling to take any of the measures that are needed to even begin to put its economic house in reasonable order."

The nations that are trying to bail out President Anwar Sadat, therefore, "are reluctant to pour new money into Egypt in the absence of the necessary reforms."

The United States now funnels an annual $1 billion into Egypt to bolster Sadat's government. Yet more and more of the money is going "to finance consumption instead of investment," the report charges. For example, the Egyptian government spends $1 billion a year to keep food prices down.

When Sadat cautiously tried to reduce this billion-dollar subsidy, riots erupted in the streets. What worries U.S. policymakers is that Egypt's economic deterioration might precipitate Sadat's downfall. They regard him as an able leader whose moderate policies have kept the Arab world from taking a sharp left turn.

Parisians turn to anti-theft devices

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA) — Holidays are the burglars' busiest times.

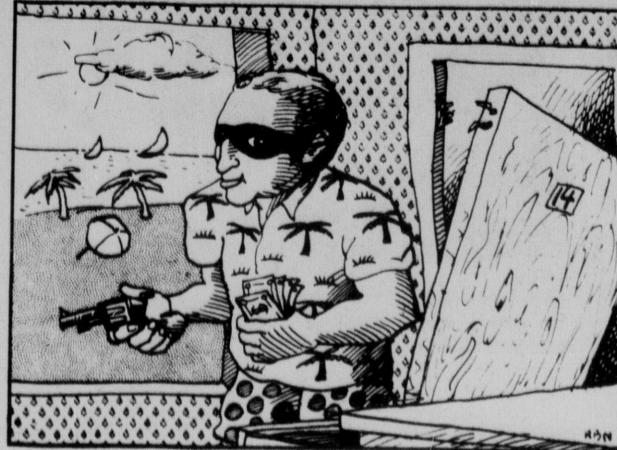

From July to the end of September, Paris and its suburbs are the happy hunting grounds of professional and amateur housebreakers. Last summer alone, some 200,000 break-ins were reported here.

This sign of the times, perhaps the result of an affluent society, engendered the proliferation of firms specializing in anti-burglary devices, some guaranteed to halt any attempt at breaking into a home.

The situation has led to the distribution by the police of warnings and instructions to too-confident house owners, shoppers, as well as to travelers and unsuspecting pedestrians.

Explained in detail are the methods of thieves operating in the metro, public transports, crowded areas, department stores and supermarkets. Also outside banks, social security centers and post offices where citizens, often pensioners, are followed and divested of their money. People are warned that it is better to be accompanied by a friend or relative, if a relatively important sum of money is concerned.

Women are told, on streets and avenues, to carry their purses or baskets on the side bordered by buildings and to watch out for motorcyclists riding against the traffic, who may reach out to snatch purse or package.

Again, police warn householders never to keep large sums of money at home, and to have a peephole installed in the front door. The next must is to install an inside safety catch which allows the householder to open the door only a few inches, preventing anyone forcing an entrance.

It is also advised to ask to see the credentials of any strange visitors, man or woman, whatever the mission.

In the case of an official identity card holder, be careful to shut the door behind you and fix the security bolt yourself. Never allow an unknown person alone in a room and arrange to have all official papers, such as identity card, permits, tax receipts, bank statements ready at hand and, above all, never anywhere where you may keep ready cash.

In the event of men claiming to having been called in to do urgent repairs of which you have not been informed, ask them to come back accompanied by the janitor or superintendent of the building. If, in spite of all these precautions you are victim of a holdup, do not panic. Inform the police immediately.

Out of the countless criminal cases judged during the first nine months of 1976, statistics show that 78 per cent concerned burglaries, many coupled with violence.

It is no wonder that there are few householders today bereft of any means of protection. There are consequently a thousand and one gadgets on the market. It is a common occurrence to receive anti-theft publicity in one's mail. The appliances range from the armored front door to a radar signal, from a strident alarm to tear gas.

Things have come to such a pass that most insurance companies refuse compensation to a householder who does not doublelock the door, even for as brief an absence as a half hour. It seems it now is up to the individual to ensure his security, especially if works of art, jewels or antiques are in danger.

Security manufacturers warn that making a door look like Fort Knox is of no earthly use if the lock itself is not absolutely burglar proof. Many locks fill a burglar's heart with joy, those which are child's play to force. So-called armored doors are not foolproof if only because they can be jimmed off their hinges.

Another fact is that thieves are well informed about the latest inventions. "Some professionals," said artisan Jean Pourchot, "buy the latest standard models used in new apartment houses and study the tools capable of forcing locks with the least possible delay."

All thieves, however, are not old hands. Usually, if at the end of five minutes a potential housebreaker is unsuccessful, he abandons any hope of getting in. But many burglars profit by a householder's negligence. Recently a young delinquent told the judge with disarming candor: "I can burgle as many as 30 apartments in one day just by finding the key under the mat." Hiding money in the flour bin, refrigerator, gas stove, behind a radiator, and such is no security. Burglars usually make straight for these points.

Again, a letter box jammed with mail, in the modern apartment buildings without the eagle-eyed "concierge" of old, who seldom missed any comings and goings past her cubby-hole, is just another invitation to the potential lawbreaker.

A complication with the new burglar-proof gadgets is their high cost — from $500 to $1,500. According to the leading firm specializing in such devices, there is no surefire burglar-proof system. "Every apartment and house needs a different apparatus. The big thing is to be sure it is in perfect working order. Some sound detectors go off at the slightest noise, with the result that nobody moves when it is really urgent."

The police say that the burglar's arsenal used to pick locks or break down doors is really most rudimentary, from the passkey to the Jimmy the blowtorch. Unfortunately now these tools are often supplemented by firearms when, surprised by an unexpected or resistant owner, many burglars today do not hesitate to become killers.

Immunizations vetoed in outbreak

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Jackson County Health Department official says immunizations cannot be given against a flu outbreak that has forced some schools to close in the Kansas City area until the virus is identified.

Florence Brunson, deputy director of the department, said health officials think the malady might be a B-type virus like the Hong Kong flu rather than the A-type virus such as swine flu.

Blood and throat cultures were taken from some students of the rural Grain Valley School Districts, and sent to the Missouri Health Department for laboratory analysis.

Classes in the district were dismissed for the week on Wednesday after 280 of the district's 724 students were absent the previous day.

Officials of Loretto Lower School, a Roman Catholic school, indicated there would be no classes there the rest of the week after the school closed Thursday because of the continued absence of about one-third of its 180 students.

Other school districts in the Kansas City area also reported high absenteeism because of the flu, but none planned to close.

Mrs. Brunson said students stricken with the flu have reported temperatures up to 103 degrees, severe headaches, sore throat, coughing and a tight chest.

much money around for frivolities, but he enjoyed life. He had friends and he had fun.

He also had discipline. His parents, his grandparents, his aunts and uncles told him what he could do and what he couldn't do. So he knew there was a line over which he couldn't step, and he adhered to that line.

In fact, his environment only once caused him grief. That was when he went to a Catholic school and some busybody woman complained about "that boy" from "that background" being in the school, and they kicked him out.

"It really didn't bother me to be kicked out," he says, "but it hurt my mother — she cried — and that bothered me, to see my mother cry."

But, other than that, he says he enjoyed his childhood. He says his family was "into life," and that was exciting for a boy. But they taught him respect — he still says, "ma'am" and "sir" to people — and they taught him about the reality of life.

"I think maybe that's where I got my sense of humor," he says. "Everything in that neighborhood was human and true, and I try to base my humor on truth."

As a boy he wanted to be a policeman or a fireman or an adventurer. Still, he went to movies constantly, fantasized himself as the leading man.

"My folks' ambition for me," he says, "was just that I stay out of jail, stay in school, do something with my life. My grandmother kept saying to me, 'Be a good person.'"

He kept going to the local movie theater — they called it the Funky London.

"It had rats and roaches but it only cost 12 cents," he says. "The roaches would take your popcorn."

When he was 14, he began working at odd jobs — cleaning up the night club, shining shoes, shaking hides at a packing house. But he began entertaining, too — singing at a local club called Collins Corner, which had a talent night every Wednesday. By the time he was 20, he was a comedian.

That's how it all began. But there's been a second beginning. And now Richard Pryor, a happy Richard Pryor, is about set to become a major star.

Host Smithton beaten

Montrose, Green Ridge win to reach tournament final

By RON HIGGINS
Staff Sportswriter

SMITHTON — The first-seeded and defending champion Montrose Bluejays and the Green Ridge Tigers, seeded second, advanced into tonight's championship match here with wins Thursday night in the 16th annual Smithton Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Both games were close and exciting as the Bluejays got past the New Franklin Bulldogs 48-43 and Green Ridge needed an overtime to defeat the Smithton Tigers 52-43.

After 6-4 New Franklin forward Steve Wells brought his Bulldogs within one, 37-36, early in the fourth quarter, Montrose's Jim Engeman lit the Bluejay pilot light with a three-point play giving Montrose a 40-36 advantage. For the remainder of the period, the Bluejays played good basketball holding down the Bulldogs.

It wasn't easy sailing for Montrose the whole game, though. New Franklin shot out to an early 3-0 lead before the Jays scored in spurts of six and five points taking a 15-10 edge at the close of the first period.

Norman Jurgensmeyer gave the Bluejays a seven-point, 27-20, cushion 24 seconds before the half connecting on a pair from the free throw line.

Montrose came out fired up in the second half running off eight unanswered points and a 35-20 lead before New Franklin turned the tables slicing 12 points from the Bluejay advantage. By the time the smoke cleared, Montrose held on to a 35-32 margin.

The third quarter ended 37-34, Montrose.

Wells led all scorers with 19 points. Mark Swaters paced the Bluejays with 18 points.

Throughout the contest, bodies crashed and elbows flew. "It was physical," agreed Gil Hanlin, Montrose mentor. "I sort of figured it would be."

Montrose, now 16-3, has played the Bulldogs three times in the last three years — all of them here in the tournament. "They darned near beat us a couple of years ago," said Hanlin.

The Bluejay coach said his team lost some of its offensive punch in the third quarter when Norman Jurgensmeyer was out of the game. "He normally plays point and generates the offense," he said.

After Smithton and Green Ridge were locked at 41 closing out the fourth quarter, Green Ridge reeled off nine successive points in overtime before Jim Tolliver broke the ice for Smithton with a field goal. Tolliver's effort came a little late though as only 25 seconds remained in the extra period.

Green Ridge held a 39-29 advantage with as little as two minutes to play in regulation time before Smithton put on one of the most dramatic comebacks this year.

The host Tigers whittled away at Green Ridge's lead until Jamie Griffin brought Smithton within two, 41-39, with a jumper from the right of the key with 16 showing on the clock. Kelly Cook stole a long Green Ridge inbound pass and Smithton's Steve Cook connected from outside the key before the buzzer sounded sending the game into extra minutes.

State Fair lead melts as Rebels apply heat

By KIRK WEBER
Sports Editor

For most of the first half Thursday night, East Central Junior College played the role of the "Sleeping Giant," allowing State Fair Community College to fashion a 42-38 halftime lead.

But in the final 20 minutes, the Rebels from Union, Mo., came alive with a vengeance, smashing the Roadrunners' dreams of an upset with a 51-point second half on the way to a 89-70 win.

The Rebels simply took charge in the second half, forcing State Fair turnovers and burning the Roadrunners repeatedly with the fast break.

"Their defense really tightened up in the second half," said SFCC head coach Bill Barton. After a moment he added, "And we got to standing around on offense."

The Rebels' Steve Tappmeyer opened the half with a basket, followed by two free throws from the Roadrunners' James Sumlin that made the score 44-40.

Then the Rebels churned out 13 unanswered points, and suddenly the Roadrunners were nine points down. Finally, Sumlin hit a two-pointer with 12:06 to play that narrowed East Central's lead to 21.

seven. But that was as close as the Roadrunners would be the rest of the night.

Actually, SFCC had its hands full in the first half, with the Rebels leading by as many as 11 midway through the period. But the Roadrunners gnawed away until Gary Riechmann hit both ends of a one-and-one free throw opportunity to tie the score at 28-all.

East Central's David Cochran hit a basket to put his team ahead again, but a goaltending call on a Pete Fiene shot, and a free throw by Willie Williams gave State Fair a one-point edge.

The Rebels quickly took the lead again, but a 17-foot jumper by Williams with about two minutes left gave the Roadrunners the lead they held until the second half.

Fouls played an important part in the half, as East Central collected 11 to just one for State Fair. The Roadrunners hit 12 of 15 first-half free throws, while the Rebels didn't go to the line at all.

In the second period, the trend reversed itself, as State Fair picked up 18 fouls to only seven for East Central.

Derrick Ferguson was the games leading scorer, dropping in 25 for the Rebels. Tappmeyer finished the night with 21.

For the Roadrunners, Pete Fiene, who hit five of five from the free throw line, scored 20 points, and Willie Williams 17.

State Fair could take some solace from the fact that they held Cochran to 16 points for the night. Going into the game, the 6-5½ freshman was 11th-ranked in the nation among junior college scorers with 26.4 points per game.

The Roadrunners, on the other hand saw their season mark drop to 8-15.

State Fair takes on Johnson County Community College Saturday night in another home game. The game is also homecoming for the Roadrunners.

Jerry Tarkanian may have to change his mind about playing road games. He certainly will have to live with his words, at the very least.

Earlier in the week, the coach of the Nevada-Las Vegas basketball team expressed a passion for playing games away from home with this bold statement: "To me, the greatest thrill is going into a place on the road where everybody's screaming for you to lose ... and sticking it to them."

"We did not control the tempo of the game," Tarkanian said. "Illinois State did. We played at their speed. If we for Tarkanian Thursday night after his fourth-ranked Rebels were stunned 88-84 by Illinois State at Normal, Ill.

"I think the crowd had us in awe," said Tarkanian, suddenly revising his views about the road. "It was the noisiest place I've ever been in."

Perhaps the roar of the crowd had something to do with his team's downfall, but the real culprit was the Rebels' inability to keep a step ahead of the flying Redbirds.

Obviously, Tarkanian thinks his team is not that good, either.

"I think we're overrated," he reflected.

In other college basketball games Thursday night, second-ranked UCLA defeated Washington 75-76; seventh-ranked Michigan trimmed Inof the game, the only way to get it is by rebounding and we don't rebound well.

"ISU played an outstanding game. We have no excuses. We made a couple of runs at them, but they never folded. They killed us on the boards. Our big people are not that strong."

Forward Bill Lewis paced Illinois State's balanced attack with 21 points as the Redbirds snapped Nevada-Las Vegas' 14-game winning streak.

Roy Hamilton, UCLA's sophomore guard, stole a pass and scored two baskets, leading an 8-0 blitz in 39 seconds, sparking the Bruins over Washington in a key Pacific-8 Conference game.

Rickey Green scored 32 points, including eight on free throws in the final two minutes, sending Michigan past Indiana. Bruce Campbell's 18-foot field goal with 28 seconds left propelled Providence past Rhode Island.

Colon Abraham's 21 points powered Clemson past Cleveland State. Syracuse whopped Buffalo State behind Roosevelt Bouie's 17 points, and Purdue defeated Northwestern as Walter Jordan contributed 22 points.

Falcons pick former Rams assistant as head coach was rumored at $400,000 for the five-year period.

Rams Coach Chuck Knox felt Bennett's appointment as Atlanta head coach was "quite a compliment to our program."

"I'm very happy for Leeman and his family for his opportunity to coach in Atlanta," said Knox. "He's done an outstanding job for us with our receivers, and last year he called all of our offensive plays and was outstanding at that."

Bennett, named to lead the Falcons after Dallas assistant Dan Reeves turned down the job, rejected suggestions that he was a second choice.

"From my conversation with Eddie LeBaron and others in the Falcon organization, it is my understanding that Reeves wasn't offered the job," he said.

Reeves reportedly disdain ed the Falcons' training facilities.

"Dan's used to the Dallas practice fields and office setup," said LeBaron.

LeBaron and Bennett will replace Pat Peppier, the Falcons' former general manager who also was named head coach when Marion Campbell was fired last season.

"I think I proved myself again," said Layton, referring to his good start earlier in the season. "I think I gave Red (Coach Red Holzman) more confidence in my game tonight."

Today's North hand is a minimum raise. Just six high-card points, but there are three trumps to the queen and a five-card suit headed by the ace.

The raise worked out mighty well for North and South. Of course, North was decidedly nervous when his partner burst into Blackwood. Fortunately for everyone's peace of mind, or at least for North and South's peace of mind, South settled for six when North could not show a king. There was no problem in the play. South won the trump lead, played one more trump to pull the defenders' last trump, played ace and one club — showed his hand with the announcement, "I'll ruff my last club."

If North had merely responded with a negative two notrump, the chances are that the partnership would have stopped at just four spades. At least, it would require a decided overbid on someone's part to get past game after that start.

Ask the Jacobys

A Montana reader wants to know what the correct response to partner's two-spade opening bid is with:

▲ Q x x x ♠ A x x x ♦ K x x x x

Just respond with three spades. You intend to bid beyond game later on, but want to make sure that you start by showing trump support.

Today's North hand is a minimum raise. Just six high-card points, but there are three trumps to the queen and a five-card suit headed by the ace.

The raise worked out mighty well for North and South. Of course, North was decidedly nervous when his partner burst into Blackwood. Fortunately for everyone's peace of mind, or at least for North and South's peace of mind, South settled for six when North could not show a king. There was no problem in the play. South won the trump lead, played one more trump to pull the defenders' last trump, played ace and one club — showed his hand with the announcement, "I'll ruff my last club."

If North had merely responded with a negative two notrump, the chances are that the partnership would have stopped at just four spades. At least, it would require a decided overbid on someone's part to get past game after that start.

Ask the Jacobys

A Montana reader wants to know what the correct response to partner's two-spade opening bid is with:

♦ Qxxx ♥ Axxx ♦ Kxxx ♣ x. Just respond with three spades. You intend to bid beyond game later on, but want to make sure that you start by showing trump support.

Activity solves retirement problem

Dear Ann: Thousands of wives have a problem. I've put it in the form of a poem.

What do you suggest? — Trying Hard

EARLY RETIREMENT

Gold watch day came, not a moment too soon.

For the awaited honeymoon.

Their second one. The hours well spent

In mellow, mutual merriment.

Fish are biting, books need writing.

What's this she hears — the steady clink

Of cups and saucers in the sink?

Perpetual television football?

Fridge door bouncing on the wall?

Her sofa-napping, dear breadwinner

Waiting, breakfast, lunch and dinner?

Which will come first — her nervous breakdown?

Or worst of all — his high cholesterol?

— Original, Uncopyrighted

In Portland, Oregon

Dear Friend: Check out the Golden Age Club in Portland and get the big lug off the sofa.

The solution to the problem is activity.

Has to know what's going on. It probably doesn't matter because Susan refuses to go out with anyone but the jerk. He says he's going to marry her no matter what. How do I stand it? — Tupper Lake, N.Y.

Dear T.L.: There is no way you can live your child's life, so accept the fact — for openers.

Susan needs counseling. But again — all you do is suggest it. The girl sounds as if she is masochistic (enjoys being kicked around). She has a low opinion of herself and believes she deserves it.

To all you parents who can't stand what your daughter or son has brought home, I say this: It's THEIR problem.

Don't die over it. The "bought" lessons are the best learned.

TV & ENTERTAINMENT

Pull Out and Save

Ask TV Scout

It didn't

Why was a show like We'll Get By taken off? It was funny and good. Too good to take off. — N.D., Plumsteadville, Pa.

Ratings didn't measure up. The show, I agree, was much better than a lot of the stuff that gets to stay on. It was created, you probably recall, by Alan Alda.

Sammy and spouse

Is Sammy Davis married? If so, what is his wife's name? Is she in show business? — N.D., Chicago, Ill.

Sammy's nice wife, Altovise, is an actress and dancer.

The television listings printed by The Sedalia Democrat-Capital are furnished by television stations in advance of publication. Last-minute changes in scheduling, therefore, may not be shown. The absence of an individual channel's listings indicates failure by the station to furnish a schedule.

Our Gang Is DEDICATED... TO THEIR WORK!!!

You can see this as soon as you step inside our door.

At our walk-in service counter you'll meet four of the most qualified...

Dennis, Rusty, Mike & Pete.
Mis-fire, Loose Connection, Broken Rod, Leaky Exhaust, (these aren't the nicknames of the above); but, whatever problem you have on your car or truck, the four mentioned above will know the answer. They're a spark off the ol' engine block.

Skilled in electric and air tool repair are Ken & Al. They have the right tools and they are fast.

Aaron, our delivery man, trains every day so he'll be ready to make deliveries.

Our bookkeeper, Esther, is well informed on the latest. She is very courteous and responsible. You'll like her.

We've got the crew that are always willing to do more for you.

THERE IS NO ADDITIONAL CHARGE FOR THIS GREAT SERVICE.

You'll find it only at...
